We will ship books in the sequence that orders were received. Shipping will normally be by US Postal Service media mail, but we reserve the right to ship by other means at our discretion (with no addition charge to the buyer). No returns, all sales are final except for damage in shipping, in which case we will provide a replacement free of charge.

Please do not request means of shipping other than USPS media mail for books purchased by check. At this time we are not equipped to ship by other means for books purchased by check. We do have the capability to accept orders on-line with payment by major credit card and a variety of shipping methods and prices of the customers' choice. This is because the on-line software has a real time connection to UPS and the US Postal Service to calculate shipping charges.
